

I think, women prefer romance novels, and men prefer action movies because we all love to look at what we most often miss. Men lack drive, energy, and women lack kindness and love. And teenagers most often like fantasy. The fact is that teenagers have always been drawn to something unknown, they have always been attracted by riddles and secrets.

Test 2

Dialogue

I don't have hobbies, so I spend my time on myself or with friends and family.

I think reading or chess is the best for introverts. Reading is the most favorite activity among those who don't need a wide circle of communication. And while playing chess, it's not necessary to communicate with the opponent and a person develops intuitive and logical thinking.

Extroverts excel in areas based on connections between people, so hobbies where you need to contact people (so h) are most suitable for them. For example, like volunteering or tourism with a team.
